WANTED HIS MONEY.

The Times Register has the following: It is said that an old gentleman of this county, who had $2,000 on deposit in one of Salem's banks, when he heard of the failure of the Roanoke Trust, Loan and Safe Deposit Company, came straightway to town and drew his $2,000 out of bank. It was paid to him in gold and silver coin, making quite a bulk. After the old man had kept it out about an hour he decided to redeposit it, but the bank officers said they had no use for it and declined to receive it. Salem's banks are all right, they are.

THE NEW LOCKS.

Mr. J. J. Davidson, the owner of the general purpose combination locks, which have been recently introduced in Roanoke and vicinity, stated yesterday to a Times reporter that he had just succeeded in closing out the State rights of North Carolina and Rhode Island to several Richmond business men.

Messrs. O. L. Stearnes and others, of Salem, have also resold the State of Pennsylvania, which they purchased sometime ago. It is learned that they sold the State right at a good profit.

Prince Short, the Virginia State agent, on Wednesday sold seven counties and on Wednesday sold two.

Mr. Davidson received a letter yesterday from Nashville, stating that parties in that city would give him $50,000 for the right to the trunk and cabinet lock alone, leaving the door lock out of the question; $25,000 of this was offered in cash.

The invention is destined to revolutionize the lock business, as it is keyless and so constructed that it is absolutely burglar-proof so far as the lock is concerned. It works on a double combination, and it is impossible to work it without first knowing it. There is no chance work about it. The knowledge of the combination is all that is required, and the lock works unusually easy. Mr. Davidson can be seen at any time in the office of J. Shirley Smith, in the Terry Building.

CALVARY PICNIC.

the Union depot where eight coaches awaited them which they boarded and went to Elliston for a day's outing and a regular picnic. Rev. Dr. Broughton and W. C. Saunders, the Sunday-school superintendent, had everything arranged in a systematic manner. About 450 members of the school went on the excursion, and the train was stopped at the West End for the Mission school which numbers 200 more. Everybody started out with the intention of having a good time. The Calvary Baptist Sunday-school orchestra consisting of six pieces and an organ, under the direction of Prof. Rasmussen, were on board. A plentiful supply of Sunday hymn books were taken along, so that there will be music under the shade of the grand old trees for which Elliston is famous. MAKES A FULL CONFESSION.

George E. Bruce, a young white man, twenty-seven years of age, whose home is in Bedford City, was brought to Salem on Friday and lodged in jail, charged with stealing a horse from Mr. John Black, near Roanoke, on the night of June 1. When arraigned before the magistrate Monday the prisoner pleaded guilty, and was sent on to the grand jury.

Bruce, who says he is the main dependence of a widowed mother, is rather an intelligent young fellow, and has evidently been well raised, although he confesses to have "sowed wild oats," but never before in anything like a criminal manner. Since his confinement he has been visited by Evangelist Hypes and others, and professes to be thoroughly converted. He mourns his present predicament greatly on account of his devoted mother, but realizes he is in the hands of the law. In his confession, he says he has not been influenced by anything, except his conscience, and he cannot understand how, with his past life and experiences, he ever allowed himself to commit the crime for which he is now being punished. His story, as related to a Times-Register man, is interesting and pathetic, and his condition is a sad lesson indeed.—Times-Register.

Lucian H. Cocke, Trustee.

SOUND AND SUCCESSFUL.

In our advertising columns of Thursday's issue we printed the twenty-ninth annual statement of the Union Central Life Insurance Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio. This company is one of the strongest and most popular life insurance institutions in this country. Of fifty-three old-line companies in the United States, seventeen wrote less business in 1895 than the year previous. Of this number, three companies alone wrote over $167,000,000 less new business than they did the year before. The average expense ratio of these three companies, which so largely decreased their business, was within a fraction of 5 per cent. On the contrary, the Union Central increased its new business last year by over $4,000,000, writing during the year 1895 the largest business in any year of its history, while its expense ratio was only 2.8-100 per cent. So much for the ability to combine successful with economical management of the affairs of a great financial institution such as the Union Central.
